PGR Activities

Tuesday 15th April, University of Liverpool

Time	Session	Speaker(s)
09:00–09:05	Registration and Welcome	Mini Saxena and Diksha Sanyal
09:05–09:25	Session A – Publishing Q&A	The activities will kick off with a Q&A session with Professor Phil Thomas. Prof Thomas is the founding and remains the editor of the Journal of Law and Society, based at Cardiff Law School. The Journal of Law and Society is a leading international socio-legal journal. Professor Thomas has extensive knowledge and expertise in socio-legal publishing and welcomes any questions on this area.
09:25 – 10:10	Session B – Research Impact	Professors Sean Columb, James Organ, and Jennifer Sigafos (University of Liverpool) will talk about their experiences of conducting research that contributes to Impact. Impact has become a bit of a buzzword that is increasingly finding mention in socio-legal studies. The session will cover what Impact means and its significance for the REF as well as doctoral research more generally. The University of Liverpool has had a stellar record at winning the SLSA's Impact Prize in recent years, and we are happy to have Prof Columb, who won last year, on the panel.
10:10– 10:20	Break
10:20 – 11:05	Session C – Career Pathways Post-PhD	This panel session will be comprised of Dr Zaina Mahmoud and Dr Ellen Reeves (early career scholars from the University of Liverpool) as well as Alice Tofts (UCL). They will provide strategic and practical advice about how to navigate your career after you complete the PhD. Professors Mahmoud and Reeves will speak to careers in academia post-PhD, and Alice will talk to us about careers in policy given the increasing focus being given to non-academic pathways by UK Research and Innovation as well as the various Doctoral Training Partnerships.
11:05 –11:15	Break
11:15 –12:00	Session D – Bringing Arts and Humanities to Socio-Legal Research	The final session will be delivered by Professors Sean Mulcahy (La Trobe University), Maria Federica Moscati (University of Sussex), and Lucy Finchett-Maddock (Bangor University), the convenors of the new Dance/Law stream at the SLSA. They will be joined by Prof James Greenwood-Reeves (University of Leeds), who co-convenes the Law, Literature and the Humanities stream. This session will address the increasing incorporation of arts and humanities into socio-legal studies, the rise of creative methods to undertake socio-legal research, and the increasing relevance of art.
12:00	Concluding remarks	Mini Saxena and Diksha Sanyal
