Free membership for medical students

Congratulations! You've made it to medical school. Join our student community and be part of the UK's leading medical defence organisation.

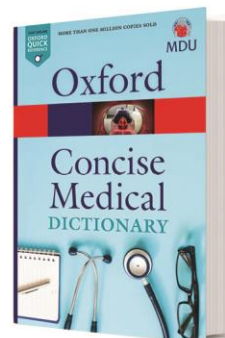

As a student you won't be expected to make independent decisions about patient care, but you never know when you may find yourself in need of help. That's where we come in. Having support from your medical defence organisation can go a long way to quelling anxiety if problems occur during your training.

We're a mutual not-for-profit organisation which means we're funded by members for the benefit of members. We're also led by doctors so when you pick up the phone to call for advice you'll be speaking to a doctor who's been in your shoes.

Student membership is free. You'll get an Oxford Medical Dictionary and access to a range of benefits to support you in your studies, such as:

- Revision resources.
- A student journal with study tips, case studies and careers advice.
- Discounts on textbooks.
- Sponsorship for academic and social events and competitions.
- Confidential medico-legal advice and elective indemnity.

Join as a fresher and get an

Collect your dictionary from us at your freshers' fair. If we can't be there we'll arrange for it to be posted to you.
