Students taking the Year in China must have passed all modules in the year preceding the year to be spent in China at the first attempt. Students who fail modules in the year preceding the year to be spent in China and are required to re-sit in August/September will not be permitted to participate in the Year in China and must transfer to the corresponding programme without the Year in China.

Students studying Chinese as a Minor Subject Component or Joint Subject Component within Honours Select will follow the Modern Languages and Cultures Year Abroad in China and are not eligible for the Year in China.

5. Assessment/re-assessment

Students studying the Year in China programme should undertake all formative and summative assessments associated with the modules for which they are registered at XJTLU. - Students will be registered for two 60 credit modules (one per semester) in Liverpool.
- To pass the Year in China students must achieve an overall grade in each 60 credit module of 40% or above. Grades achieved at the partner will be converted and the overall grade for each 60 credit module will be calculated according to the standard Study Abroad regulations.

If students fail the Year in China, they will not be awarded a degree with a Year in China and, where appropriate, progress, to subsequent years of the corresponding degree programme without a Year in China. (The modules and marks will be listed on the students' transcripts).
