Statistics Don't Lie

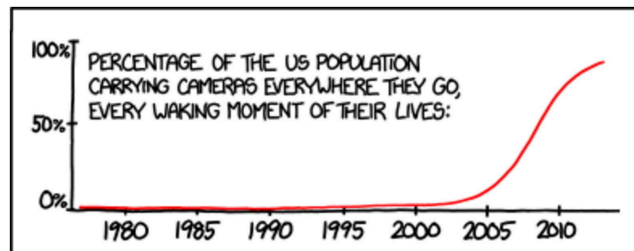

Have extraterrestrial aliens visited Earth? ✓ 40%

Are extraterrestrial aliens visiting now? ✓ 35%

That's less than the number who believe in ghosts (60%)
but greater than telekinesis (25%)
or Bigfoot (20%)

[... or evolution (31%)]

UFOs? Isn't It Now Settled?

IN THE LAST FEW YEARS, WITH VERY LITTLE FANFARE, WE'VE CONCLUSIVELY SETTLED THE QUESTIONS OF FLYING SAUCERS, LAKE MONSTERS, GHOSTS, AND BIGFOOT.

No, It's Not Settled

Google hits for "UFO" > 250 million

This implies that, despite so many cameras, it's not settled

UFO images could be ...

- Manmade Objects
- Natural Objects
- Image Artefacts
- Deliberately Faked
- Extraterrestrial Spacecraft

UFOs

Definitions and Claims

I will conform to the conventional usage of the acronym UFO to mean an object observed in the sky that is not readily identified.

Regarding an extraterrestrial origin, I side with Carl Sagan:

"Extraordinary claims require extraordinary evidence"

Another useful tool for a rational scientist is Occam's Razor:

"If there are two explanations for an observation, then the one that requires the least speculation is usually better" or

"Simpler solutions are more likely to be correct than complex ones"

A Good Year For UFOs

"Super Clear" Footage

YouTube Videos

One YouTube video in particular piqued my interest ...

" Puerto Rico's close proximity to [the Bermuda Triangle] may explain why it's a known hotbed for UFOs.

There have been countless UFO sightings over the years, but many experts consider this next piece of footage the Gold Standard. "

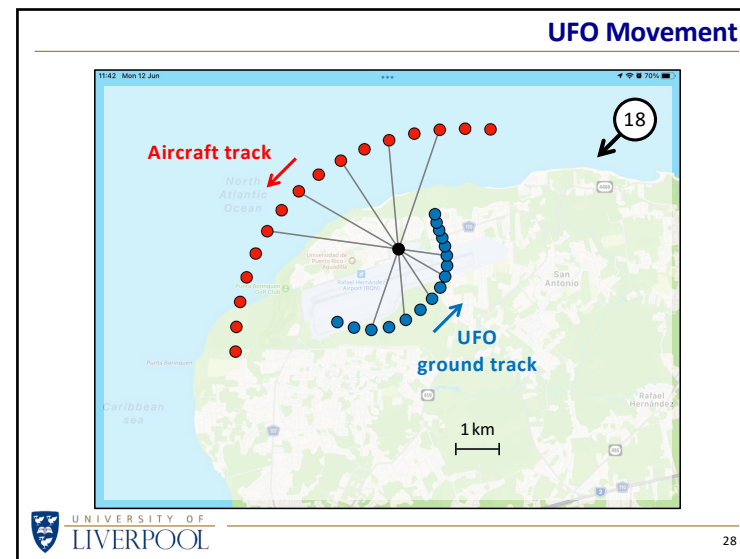

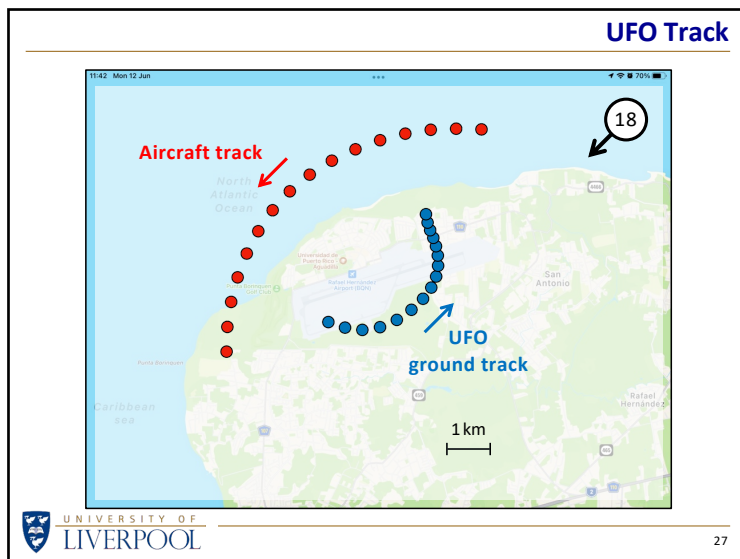

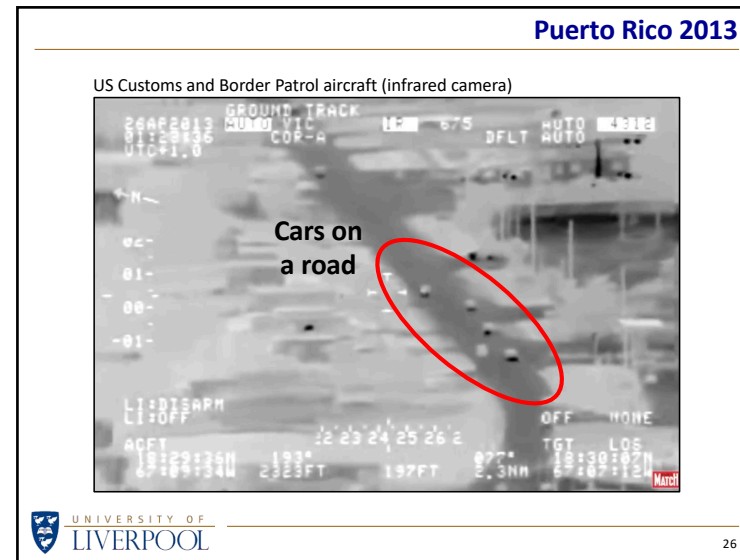

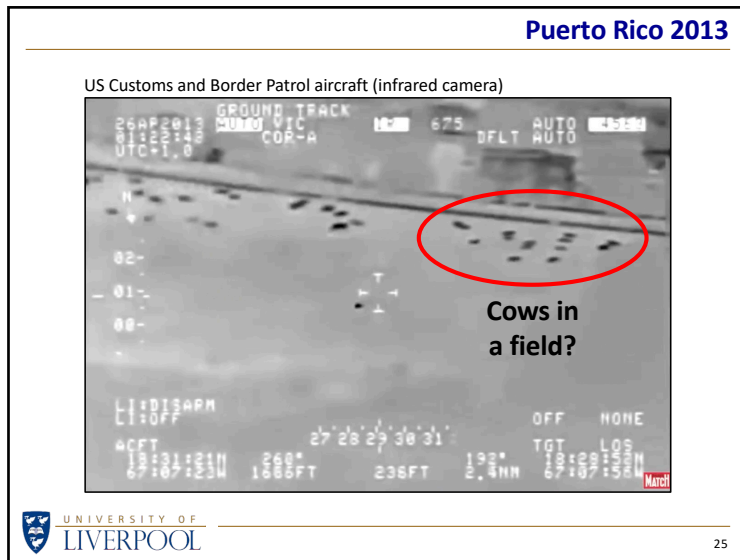

Does this 'Gold Standard' for UFO sightings stand up to scrutiny?

"Of countless UFO sightings, many experts consider this the Gold Standard."

The YouTube description:

A metallic orb ...
... moving at incredible speed
... with no obvious propulsion
... into a 18mph headwind

The infrared camera sees an object that "does not match anything we know of".

An alternative explanation:
The object is essentially static
It is drifting slowly downwind
It is probably a balloon

Extraterrestrials?

The lack of evidence for extraterrestrial UFOs leads to a question ...

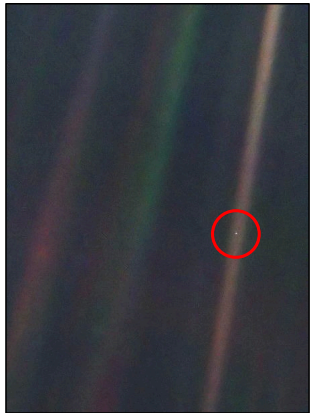

The number of stars in the Milky Way	≈	300 billion
Most have planetary systems	÷ 2 ⇒	150 billion
Quite a few planets are Earth-like	÷ 3 ⇒	50 billion
Life may have originated	÷ 100 ⇒	500 million
Complex life may have evolved	÷ 100 ⇒	5 million
Intelligent life may have evolved	÷ 100 ⇒	50 thousand

So if the galaxy is full of civilisations – Where are they?
